THIRTY-SIXTH YEAR

LIMA, OHIO, MONDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1921

PRICE THREE CENTS

Germany

GERMANY is the first country to publish full details of the effects of the war on population. The census shows that Germany in October, 1919, had 60,412,084 inhabitants.

On the basis of normal increase in population, Germany would have had an additional 11,013,909 people, had there been no war, says the analysis made in Berlin.

That is Germany's actual war loss. Money losses and indemnity do not count for a great deal, viewed from the perspective of centuries. What really counts is war's death toll—in battle and behind the lines.

Caravan

MACHINERY steadily invades all the fields of romance. Whalers fire harpoons from an electric cannon. Sperry invents a device to keep a ship from rocking during a storm. And now a French company will establish automobile caravan service across the Sahara desert.

Getting nearer home, the Horse Thief Detecting Society at Middletown, N. Y., which was formed in 1877 to combat horse thieves, disbanded. Members will form a new society to catch automobile thieves. Before long, the inventors may force even it to disband and start a new society to catch airplane rustlers.

Happiness

NAVESTOCK, English village, claims it is the happiest town in the world. For centuries it has had a custom of awarding a side of bacon, at the annual village fete, to the local married couple who have gone 12 months without a family quarrel.

This year, every married couple in Navestock claimed the bacon. Possibly that is where the expression "taking home the bacon," originated.

Movies

THERE are about 42,000 moving picture theaters in the world, according to latest reports.
More important: Nearly half of them are in the United States.

This is another indication that our standard of living is the best in the world. The proof is, that we have the most money for amusement. Might be better off if, in our spare time, we occasionally had to sit and think.

Rivers

DO you know the longest river in the world? Your answer probably is the Amazon. Yet its length is only 3900 miles. The Nile is 4000 miles, the Mississippi 2486 miles, and the Mississippi-Missouri river is 4221 miles, longest in the world.

This doesn't mean much to us, but it did to America's pioneers. Early settlers of a country always follow rivers to the coast.

River navigation is coming back. Watch the inland river towns. They have big futures.

Talk

CRITIC comments that the United States is a very talkative nation since it has 200 telephone calls a year for every man, woman and child. That, however, is less than one a day.

Considering the great ease with which we can use the telephone convenience, which has made all Americans neighbors 200 phone calls a year for each inhabitant is almost the last word in silence.

Fires

IF you saw a man throwing his money into the gutter, you would question his sanity. The late Coal Oil Johnny scattered $5 gold pieces in the streets. It was so unusual that he became the talk of the world.

Yet in the last five years, forest fires in the United States have burned over 56,448,000 acres, an area greater than Ohio and Pennsylvania. Most of these fires were preventable. Just a case of a man throwing money away, multiplied by 100,000,000.

End

DESTROYING an old building in Diamond-st., Pittsburgh, a workman finds $4000 in old bank notes. On the back of one is a note indicating that the owner of the roll has dissipated a large fortune.

Why did the man, who had gone thru a large fortune, take it? Last $4,000, hide it and desert it? There is a mystery for your Sherlock Holmes, Monsieur Lecoq or Inspector Faurot.

Would you, falling from wealth to poverty, throw away your last dollar? Hardly—unless you realized that money had ruined you, deprived you of the finer things of life.

ENLISTING 25,000 MAYORS IN JOB DRIVE

(BY COLONEL ARTHUR WODS.)

Chairman of the Unemployment Committee on Municipal Operation

WASHINGTON, (Special.)—The problem of meeting the emergency of unemployment is primarily a community problem. Responsibility for leadership rests with the Mayor and must be assumed by him.

That's one of the decisions reached by President Harding's unemployment conference. It has given prominence to the activities of my committee, whose task, under Mr. Hoover, is to deal directly with mayors in cities all over the country.

How are we doing the job?

In addition to writing the governors of states, we've established communication with the mayors of every city of 25,000 or more. We have sent them what may be called questionnaires. And along with the questionnaires we've sent two suggestions for helping the unemployment situation locally. These are:

ONE—That the city go ahead with any municipal building or improvement that has already been provided for or planned and for which funds are available.

TWO—That the mayor issue a proclamation calling on all citizens to follow the example of the city and state and have their building and repair work done now—everything from grading lawns, laying sidewalks, painting a chicken coop to putting up houses or barns.

Im mayors will do these two things and if citizens will cooperate with them, it will have a double effect.

First, unemployed men on the ground will be put to work. With the money they earn they can buy food of merchants who ask fair prices. Then orders for repairs and building supplies will be sent to the factories. This will make business for them to start work again. That means they'll take on more men. So action in one community really will help, not only help that community but help the situation all along the line.

Already replies from mayors are coming in. As fast as they arrive they're tabulated. The best ideas for meeting the unemployment crisis are picked out and shot forth all over the country for other mayors to use and to stimulate other communities.

So this committee really is acting as a clearing house for ideas.

Some of the replies we're getting show cities didn't wait until the unemployment conference started before acting on their own initiative. Many of them are up and doing already and obtaining wonderful results.

Take Portland, Ore., for instance. There they have an unemployment committee, headed by the mayor, with four unemployment directors. This committee aims to provide employment for Portland people.

Mayors of Memphis, Chattanooga, Boston, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Nashville, Youngstown and many other cities, east and west, have telegraphed that they are organizing to meet their problems.

LABOR IN DEMAND AT SAN ANTONIO

Problem There is to Get Workers for the Jobs.

PLANTS ACTIVE, WAGES HIGH

Spillane Finds Great Co-operative Spirit in Texas City.

(BY RICHARD SPILLANE)

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 17.—Herbert Hoover wrote a letter to Morris Stern, president of the chamber of commerce, of which all San Antonio should be proud. He said the handling of the flood situation recently, together with the rapid and orderly restoration of all the processes of business, without accepting one dollar of aid from outside was one of the finest examples of co-operation and civic spirit of which he knew, and he wished to congratulate them and assure them they had won the admiration of the nation. The flood, which came from a rainfall of unprecedented volume up the valley, turned the ordinarily peaceful and charming little San Antonio river into a mighty torrent, caused great damage and exacted a considerable toll of lives.

But there is little or no evidence of that damage today. Merchants disposed of their water-soaked goods at once, cleaned house and buckled down to business. All the wooden and much of the other pavement in the flooded districts had been washed away. The people repaired the city where necessary.

But they did more, they took steps at once to make another such visitation impossible. They proceeded to harness the river and use the impounded waters for industrial power and irrigation purposes. The flood did $5,000,000 damage, but for the loss of life, it might be considered a blessing in disguise for the conservation of the waters will bring enduring wealth industrially and agriculturally. Not only that, but the San Antonio tragedy has awakened all Texas to the imperative need of taking flood prevention steps in all the watersheds.

San Antonio not only has wiped out evidence of the flood, but says it is doing quite well in a business way. It is enjoying a fair trade with Mexico, in fact J. S. Peters, vice-president of the San Antonio and Arkansas Pass Railroad says exports to that country are better than ever he knew them to be. His road handles an average of a solid train load a day of freight.

San Antonioians say their city has less unemployment than any city of its size in the United States. They add that their problem is to get labor to work, rather than to get work for labor. Much of the labor hereabouts is Mexican. With high wages, they say labor has been demoralized to some degree, earning enough in three days to loaf the other three. An appeal came the other day from a large ranch 75 miles away from San Antonio for five hundred men, but it was speedily filed that only men who really would work were desired.

Skilled labor in San Antonio gets from $5 to $10 a day for eight hours, the rate varying in accordance with the ability of the worker. Carpenters get from $5 to $7 and plumbers get $10. Builders say construction costs are double what they were in 1914 and while there has been some improvement of late, the efficiency of the workers is below what it used to be.

Construction work in the San Antonio territory has been almost wholly residential. There is a strong demand for dwellings, more than can be met.

The railroad people say they have not reduced forces. On the contrary they have increased them except in the shops.

PUBLIC WILL GET SEVERE BLOW

Railway Walkout Means Complete Paralysis to Industry.

COAL BINS NEARLY EMPTY

Prostration of Grain and Other Business Would Follow.

(BY CARL VICTOR LITTLE)

CHICAGO.—(By United Press).—Big labor leaders today strove to mass workers into a solid front for the October 30 railroad strike.

Most independent unions, not affiliated with the five big brotherhoods, but having double their membership, planned to back the big leaders in the walkout in protest against wage slashes announced by railroad executives.

General chairmen of several of 20 odd smaller unions, having a membership of 1,000,000 met today. Others are scheduled to meet this afternoon. Canvases of these unions showed that they did the same as the big unions—voted overwhelmingly in favor of a strike.

Bert M. Jewell, president of the railway department, which comprises the 13 district unions belonging to the federated shop crafts formulated his strike plans and instructions with his cabinet today. It became known.

The Order of Railway Telegraphers are prepared. Vice President T. M. Pierson stated. "The operators, 80,000 men, stand back of the brotherhoods," he said.

Calling of a strike by the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees stand back of the strike. President Fitzgerald said his cabinet are ready to put their O. K. on the strike in a few minutes' notice. Only one official, the head of one union, could be found who was not in favor of a strike.

H. P. Daugherty, vice-president of the Engineers, handled strike details for the chiefs of the five brotherhoods who are now back at their home offices. Daugherty is in charge of strike headquarters here.

The general public will be hard hit when the fight between railroad employees and executive gets underway.

This is how dealers in household necessities will be hit by the strike: COAL.—The coal bin of the public and big industries is practically empty. The impending railroad strike will cause the same fuel shortage as did the coal strike of 1919.

The railroad strike will prostrate the grain business of the country and tie up the export trade, according to J. P. Griffin, president of the Chicago board of trade.

MEAT.—"Packing."—The great Chicago stock yards will become idle soon after the strike is called, which means that the million dollar a day business will be at a standstill.

CHAPLIN-ITIS

A new disease has broken out in London since the visit of the comic film star. One of its symptoms is shown here.

POLICE SURROUND LIQUOR CARGO

George Willett and M. A. Decker Nabbed Early Monday.

Seven quart bottles and a gallon jug of moonshine liquor were seized by a squad of police at 2 a. m. Monday at 670 S. Main-st., following a clever coup that had been planned by the officers.

George Willett, 670 S. Main-st., proprietor of a soft drink parlor at that address and M. A. Decker, a carpenter, who gave his address as Greenlawn-av., were arrested.

Police Judge Jackson after scoring both prisoners, fined Willett $1,000 Monday morning. Decker was ordered to pay $100. Both men were charged with transportation of intoxicating liquor, in violation of the Volstead act.

The arrests were effected after a tip had been telephoned police late Sunday night that Willett would arrive at his home shortly after midnight with a cargo of liquor in his automobile. Chief of Police Roush communicated with Judge Jackson and a search and seizure warrant was issued.

Captain Dawson and his squad of liquor raiders were sent to the scene immediately afterward, where officers, tops a garage awaiting Willett's coming. A search of the premises revealed that a quantity of liquor had been stored in Willett's furnace in his home.

Willett, whose legs had both been amputated at the hips, arrived home with his passenger and cargo liquor about 3 a. m. Monday. Captain Dawson and his men surrounded the machine as it came to a standstill and placed Willett and Decker under arrest. Search of the car revealed six quart bottles and a jug of liquor.

Board's Plan To Prevent Strike

WASHINGTON.—(By Associated Press).—Official Washington's interest in the impending national railway strike centered today in the reaction of railway executives and labor leaders to the proposal of the public group of the railroad labor board as "one feasible" to prevent the tie-up of the country's transportation.

In brief the board, proposed: 1.—That the railroads immediately put into effect freight reductions equivalent to the wage reductions authorized last July.

2.—That requests for further wage decreases be withdrawn.

3.—That the employees withdraw their strike order, pending action of the board upon any request for further wage reductions which the carriers might subsequently file.

U.S. WILL KEEP THE TRAINS RUNNING

Government Not to Permit Tieup by Strike.

WASHINGTON.—(By United Press).—The federal government will keep the railroad in operation. This was the definite assurance that came today from a high administration official as President Harding and other government leaders renewed their attempts to avert a nationwide rail strike.

A feeling pervades official Washington that the called strike will not materialize on an extensive scale, but at the same time the government realizes the transportation lines must be kept in operation, whatever happens, because the very existence of millions of people depends upon them.

The federal government has as yet framed no program of action. Whether the government would seize the roads in case the strike call is not rescinded and the walkout begins, no prominent officials would say.

From President Harding down, officials were trying to devise practical means of: Preventing the strike of railroad workers now set for October 30, and making such preparations that the general public and government shall suffer as little as possible.

Cabinet officers and members of congress considering the situation with a view to helping state of trouble, were taking these steps:

Postmaster General Hays: Preparing to provide armed guards, if necessary, to keep mail trains moving. Hays conferred with Attorney General Daugherty regarding the legal aspects of the matter. Hays is also considering calling for volunteer aviators to carry mail if the strike occurs.

UNION CHIEFS TO SEE HARDING

Will Accept President's Invitation to Conference.

PREPARE TO QUIT, HOWEVER

Plans for General Walkout Still Going Forward.

CHICAGO.—(By Associated Press).—J. C. Smock, vice-president of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railroad Shop Laborers, announced today that he had been informed by his home office at Detroit that the Erie railroad has posted a notice that wages of maintenance of way and shop employees will be cut from $7 1/2 cents to $6 cents an hour, effective in thirty days.

(By HAROLD D. JACOBS) CLEVELAND.—(United Press).—A possibility of averting the general rail strike, called for October 30, loomed suddenly today when brotherhood chiefs said they would accept President Harding's invitation to a conference at Washington with executives and government officials.

"If the president calls the union officials to Washington for a conference, we will go," declared W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and recognized spokesman for the brotherhood group.

"But I cannot say in advance what I will tell the president; I must first hear what the president has to say."

This attitude was confirmed by Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

"I would consider such an invitation in the nature of a command, and would go to Washington immediately upon receiving it," he said.

STRIKE CALL MAILED The strike call is being mailed from union headquarters here to local organizations all over the country.

Tomorrow the railway brotherhood chiefs will meet here in a council of war to complete their plans for the progressive strike which they predict will put a strangle hold on the nation's railroads and force the railroad executives to capitulate. At the time the executives will consider the proposal of the public group of the railroad labor board for preventing the strike.

MIRACLE ONLY HOPE This suggestion of the public group is that the last wage reduction granted the lines by the rail labor board be translated into rate reductions at once, that application for further reductions be withdrawn temporarily and that the unions' strike order be recalled.

"Only a miracle can now stop the strike," W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said.

There was some uncertainty as to whether Cleveland or Chicago would be "general headquarters" for the strikers. It was expected to be cleared up at tomorrow's meeting.

The strike in the Cleveland district will be directly in charge of M. J. Burke of the Trainmen and W. H. Burke of the Engineers.

The former, who had been ill at his home here for the last two weeks, had received no formal instructions to deal regarding handling of the strike. All of this was expected to be worked out at tomorrow's meeting.

Fuel and food dealers said that a complex tie-up will cause a shortage in supplies here in less than two weeks. Preparations were being made to bring large fleets of motor trucks to bring foodstuffs into the city from the surrounding country.

TRY THIS ON A WISE FRIEND SIXTY-FOUR can be divided into four parts in such a manner that if you add 3 to the first subtract 3 from the second, multiply the third by 3 and divide the fourth by 3 the result will in each case be the same. What are the four parts? Watch for answers tomorrow.

THE FLYING HOOF

By WILLIAM JOHNSON

Here is the opening chapter of "The Flying Hoof" by William Johnson, a novelist of wide fame. Mr. Johnson has taken two young girls, interior decorators by trade, and woven around them the most interesting and unique story ever written. Start this new novel today. After you read the first chapter you'll not miss a single one.

Standing there in the darkness, with her arm raised to pull down the blind, Suzanne stopped short. She had glanced casually across the court at the lighted window of the house adjoining. Rooted in terror, she stood staring at the strange tableau framed in the window opposite, hardly more than fifteen feet from her bedroom.

The apartment she and Jane Kent had taken together was the whole second floor of a West End avenue mansion that had been remodeled. In the front they had a great living room and in the rear two bedrooms, while the passage between had been divided into a hallway with three doors, one opening into the public stairway and the others concealing a well-equipped bathroom and a poorly equipped kitchenette. Suzanne had the north room, two of her windows looking out over the roofs of the Hudson and the side windows opening on a court shared by the house adjoining.

Jane had gone in the afternoon to the wide of New Jersey in search of colonial treasure. About 5 she had telephoned from Trenton that she would remain all night to continue her search in the morning. Suzanne had gone to dinner with one of her men friends—her "meal tickets"—the practical Jane branded them—and had permitted him to take her to a roof show. It had been after midnight when she had been escorted good-night at the street door, conscious for the first time as she ran lightly up the stairs of a sense of loneliness, and glad that she had thought to leave a light burning in their private hall.

But once inside her own door she bravely had turned on the light, and in the darkness had made her way to her bedroom, where the glare streaming in from the window opposite enabled her to find her way about easily. Before she turned on the lights she crossed the room in a maidenly modesty to pull down the blind, and then—

There were three men there. One of them a blonde young man in a dinner coat, was nearest the window with his back to her. Facing him were two men, who seemed to be angrily threatening him. One of those facing her was seated in an armchair, a powerfully built, blue-necked old man in his shirt sleeves. His white hair and mustache were neatly trimmed, and in his tie Suzanne caught the glint of a diamond, but instinctively she felt that he was not a gentleman. The mouth behind the mustache was hard and cruel, and the hands that rested on a table before him were rough, powerful—brutal. His eyes, hard, sneering little eyes, were fastened fixedly on the young man before him as if he was trying by sheer force of will to break him down.

The other man—Suzanne observed with a nervous start that he was holding a revolver that seemed to be pointing directly at her—looked even more repellent. Turned raven black hair that heightened the pallor of his pasty countenance, piercing black eyes, and a long, curved Spanish nose combined to give him a most villainous aspect. There was something, too, in his nervous, jerky manner that even to Suzanne's in-

WIFE SLAYER IS RETURNED HERE

Carl Hollenbacher Brought Back From Penitentiary.

AWAITS APPEALS DECISION

New Trial Dependent on Judgment of Higher Court.

Carl Hollenbacher, 38, convicted of the murder of his divorced wife, Mrs. Pearl Burgess, is again within the confines of the Allen-co jail.

Hollenbacher was brought back to Lima, Saturday night, from the Ohio state penitentiary. His case was argued in court of appeals Monday, in error.

The cause wherein Hollenbacher was found guilty of the murder and wherein he was found not to be insane, were both appealed to appeal late court on error. It was argued in these cases which legal counsel for Hollenbacher presented to the higher court Monday. A new trial is being sought for the convicted man.

CONVICTED OF MURDER

Hollenbacher was first tried on the murder charge. His legal counsel then battled the case thru the supreme court of Ohio in an effort to show he was insane and that he should have first been tried on a sanity charge. Supreme court upheld Hollenbacher's counsel.

After serving more than a year in the penitentiary, Hollenbacher was returned to Allen-co last New Year's eve and tried shortly afterward on an insanity charge. The jury found he was not insane.

In an effort to have him committed to the Lima state hospital for the criminal insane, Hollenbacher was removed to the penitentiary during the past summer for an examination by penitentiary physicians.

While at the penitentiary Hollenbacher was examined by specialists, who pronounced him sane, according to E. T. Lippincott, prosecuting attorney.

SALES COURSE TO OPEN TUESDAY

Miss Riddle to Instruct Clerks at C. C. Auditorium.

The first of the retail sales courses for clerks employed in Lima stores will be started Tuesday morning at 8:30, in the chamber of commerce auditorium. The courses of instruction are provided by the Lima Merchant's Association. Miss Elizabeth Riddle has been retained as instructor.

Classes will be held in the chamber of commerce auditorium daily at 8:30 and 9:15 a. m. and will be in two divisions, textile and non-textile. The non-textile instruction will be given each Friday morning.

Miss Riddle has already started retail sales classes in the high schools and will divide her time between them, the Merchant's Association courses of instruction and Lima retail stores.

The classes, with the exception of two weeks prior to the Christmas holidays, will continue through the winter.

ADAMS BEGINS SUIT TO PREVENT EXECUTION OF COURT ORDER OF SALE

John Q. Adams has filed suit in common pleas court for vacation of judgment on a note, which C. D. Kell secured by confession.

Adams says the note was two years old and that he had told Kell he would not pay the amount, because of alleged "false" representations made to him in the purchase of an automobile, for which the note was executed in payment.

Adams asks that the sheriff be enjoined from carrying out the terms of the execution for sale of his property. The petition sets forth Kell sold a renewed car to Adams, although representing to him it was a new automobile. Delivery was made after midnight, Adams says, so that he could not properly inspect the car until morning.

When examination finally took place, Adams says he discovered the model was one of 1917, instead of a new 1918 car.

OHIO FAIR BOYS TO MEET IN FINDLAY, NOV. 21-22

The annual meeting of the Ohio Fair circuit, including officers of every state, will be held November 21 and 22, in Findlay. A. P. Sandies, Ottawa, secretary of the Putnam-co fair, is president. A. E. Schaffer, secretary of the Auglaize-co fair, is secretary of the association. Sandies and Schaffer were in Findlay, Monday, where they completed necessary arrangements for the meeting. Plans to be pursued by Ohio fairs will be outlined at the November meeting.

Officers of the Allen-co fair will attend and bring back pointers which will be used in boosting the fair here next year.

INDIAN SUMMER STILL LINGERS

Great football weather, this, we're having now. It has been predicted that Saturday night and Sunday are inauspicious death before the final inclination of the weather manipulator.

With sunshine in all its glory and the conditions typically Indian Summer like, the short-range forecaster M. O. O. says he could not see his way clear to again essay a rain promise, save in the lake regions tonight or Tuesday.

That means, of course, that we in this zone may expect continued fair and warm tonight and Tuesday, except possibly that the cloud king may make us a visit tomorrow.

Devotees of the gridiron, anxious to advantage every favorable hour to the great outdoor game (for fall, are hoping that the weather man will continue in his present amiable mood, indefinitely.

BABSON HAS LIMA IN FRONT ROW

Economist Places This City High in Buying Power List.

Babson, greatest of all economists and business forecasters places Lima in the front row of Ohio cities and even of the country in his compilation of buying power for August, just off the press.

Despite the fact that our industrial plants were at their lowest ebb in August, Babson shows that as compared with prosperous August of last year, Lima has dropped but six per cent to 94. The average over the state is only 74 per cent, showing Lima 20 per cent above the average. For the ten year range Lima is placed at 17 per cent above normal for cities of the state.

Merchants Saturday reported another big shopping day, with hundreds of buyers here from over the district. People from the south as far as Sidney were good buyers in Lima, while Kenton is now reported as buying as heavily here as in Columbus, which got all that trade a few years ago. North to D. Shiller is particularly good territory for Lima merchants and the southwest many Huntsville residents were among shoppers Saturday. Lima is going to the state line towards Colina, but only a few Midpoint shoppers are as yet on local hooks.

Y. M. C. A. HOSTS IN ASSEMBLY AT HAMILTON FARM HEAR ADDRESSES

Y. M. C. A. work in China is being supported by the Chinese, according to the story told by E. H. Lockwood, secretary from China, before directors and a committee, called for conference Sunday.

Because of the ideal fall day, the meeting was held at the grounds of the association on the T. R. Hamilton farm.

"The amount of $500,000 was contributed by China for work in the past year. There are 29 city associations and 140 student associations in China. Membership numbers 60,000," Lockwood declared.

The Lima association is aiding support of foreign work in China. Mayor Frank A. Burkhardt was one of the speakers. Harry Martin of the state committee, told of the Y. M. C. A. as a spirit of service.

Dr. J. E. Dexter outlined plans for religious work of the association. Other speakers were Ernest Schaefer, E. A. Lesson, J. G. Maxwell, Ray J. R. S. C. Riddle, Louis C. Bradshaw and Rev. S. A. Beck. T. R. Hamilton welcomed the assembly to his farm.

R. J. Plate presided. At the close of the conference, refreshments were enjoyed at a camp-fire, with singing and informal fellowship.

DIVORCE SUITS FILED BY TWO; HUSBAND AND WIFE ARE PLAINTIFFS

Description is charged by Mrs. Millie P. Pore in a suit for divorce, filed in common pleas court Monday against her husband, B. H. Pore.

The couple are the parents of three children, eight, seven and five years of age. Mrs. Pore says her husband found good homes for the two boys and asks custody of the eldest child, a daughter.

The couple were married in June, 1918. Louis Strasen, in a suit for divorce against his wife, Lizette, filed Monday, declared that she left him to prepare his own meals and those of her children by a former marriage.

Mrs. Strasen has been absent since November, 1920, and he says he does not now know her whereabouts. In January, last, she instituted suit for alimony, but has failed to prosecute it, he relates.

The couple have no children. The marriage occurred in Lima on October 3, 1918.

PLAIN DRUNK QUARTET REPLENISH CITY CHEST

Four plain drunks swelled the city money chest Monday morning after they had pleaded guilty before Police Judge Jackson.

SILVER DOLLARS ARE IN HIDING

Bankers Have Supplies, But Nobody Wants 'em.

300,000 IN LIMA VAULTS

Dollar Bills More Desirable—Mint New Coins.

One silver buck, one cartwheel, one eagle, one half, one iron-man, they have slipped, vanished, gone. They are no more.

That is, its pretty hard to grab onto a silver dollar with its spread eagle. E Pluribus Unum et cetera, unless you actually ask that silver instead of paper be given you.

Time was, not long ago, when men's trousers pockets were loaded down with silver dollars (if he had any money to carry) and he generally had, and women's purses were bulging with "iron men" when they went shopping.

BANKS HAVE SUPPLY But this is to change and a canvass of Lima banks Monday revealed that the silver dollar is a "has been" and that although every bank keeps a good supply in its vault, they are not dispensed except when requested.

There are probably 300,000 silver dollars stored in Lima banks. They are there for those who desire them, but are for the most part handed out to merchants who wish them for making change and to firms having large pay rolls.

It was pointed out that where cashiers are making change continually in varied amounts there is less danger of mistake when handing silver dollars than dollar bills.

Men and women accustomed to carrying money do not want silver dollars. They are too heavy, they say.

ENGLAND USED 'EM

There is no acute shortage in silver dollars, although Great Britain took most of them during the war to buy supplies in the Orient, bankers say. Then Denver mint is coining them at the rate of 200,000 a day and they are becoming popular again in the southwestern states where paper money of the $1 denomination is rarely seen, bankers declare.

Anyone wanting a silver dollar, "cartwheel," and who can tender a dollar note in exchange, will be provided with it. Silver dollars are taboo only for the reason that people owning dollars no longer desire the silver variety.

TWO MILLIONS IN STRIKE FUND

Rail Union Leader Tells of Financial Backing.

CHICAGO — (By Associated Press) — The railroad brotherhoods have a strike fund of $2,000,000 which is sufficient for a general strike of any length, John Grunau, president of the United Association of Railway Employees of North America and leader of the unauthorized switchmen's strike of last year, declared today.

Grunau has issued a circular to the 60,000 members of his organization outlining the association's position in event of a strike but declaring that he does not believe there will be a withdrawal of funds from the brotherhood leaders have weakened their own ranks by circulating reports that the members of his organization will step in as strikebreakers in revenge for the efforts of the old organizations to break the Grunau strike in April, 1920.

Grunau said his union has 215 locals in the United States and Canada. Under the name of the Chicago Yordman's association, he called a strike in 1920 that for a time threatened to paralyze the nation's transportation facilities.

MRS. C. A. DICKMAN ON TRIAL ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Mrs. C. A. Dickman, keeper of a boarding house at 21 N. Centre-ave, who, in company with F. A. Mangum, welder, a lodger at her home, was arrested in a sensational liquor raid by police Friday night, was given a hearing before Judge Jackson in criminal court Monday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock.

Nine quarts of champagne, alleged to have been stolen from a vault at the Ohio Steel plant and a quantity of corn whiskey was seized in the raid. Champagne was found in the suitcase in Mangum's room; the liquor in the Dickman home. Mrs. Dickman and Mangum were taken to police headquarters where both pleaded not guilty. Bonds of $1,000 each were ordered.

Police had kept the Dickman home under surveillance for some time and seized the raid. The champagne is said to be the property of Joseph Kaufman.

Mrs. Dickman stoutly maintained her right to keep intoxicants in her home, for personal use.

Wayne Hawk, 31, for five years a resident of Lima, got in bad with police last Sunday night because of violation of the traffic ordinance.

LOVE KEPT ALIVE

NEW YORK.—Hope Hampton Monday gave to American brides this original recipe for keeping a husband's love alive: zero.

One phonograph. One blank record. Place phonograph in hidden recess and set recording, at same time starting husband to making violent oral love. Set completed record in cool, dry place.

When husband's affections apparently begin to wane—at another time within period of years serve record garbled with proper references to "when we were first married."

BETTER SERVICE SOUGHT ON O. E.

Patrons of Bellefontaine Line Complain to Council.

Two important matters are scheduled to come before council at its regular meeting Monday night at 7:30.

In answer to a number of complaints of persons residing along and using Ohio Electric interurban cars on the Bellefontaine division, that the recently curtailed service is working great hardship, council will determine whether it may be advisable to use moral persuasion in endeavor to induce the company to restore full service on that division.

The city's $135,000 municipal light bond controversy with Stacey & Braun, Toledo, was forecasted to be closed tonight. A member of the Toledo firm arrived in Lima shortly before noon, ready to close the deal for purchase of the notes.

He will represent his concern before council tonight, with full instructions to definitely bind the sale. The bonds were scheduled to arrive in Lima between 1 and 6 p. m. Monday. As that seems for the transfer to Stacey & Braun is the payment of the purchase price, and proper signatures, notary and filing of the bonds by city officials.

In anticipation of the sale of the bonds being definitely and finally cleared up at once, providing funds for the completion of the lighting system, a large number of men were put on the job Monday by the contractors, in W. Market-st., removing the old five-light post system, purchased from merchants in that thoroughfare, to be replaced by one-light standards.

NO PROSPERITY WITHOUT WORK, UNIVERSITY HEAD TELLS CALVARY AUDIENCE

"That this country can never again prosper until we have a large number of people who give themselves wholly to their jobs," was the sentiment expressed by Dr. Charles E. Miller, president of Heidelberg university in a sermon at Calvary Reformed church here Sunday night.

"If I were speaking to a bunch of clerks," Dr. Miller said, "I would advise them to give themselves to their work. That is the secret of success; there is no other way. No faith teaches this principle as does Christianity. As a religion, it is founded on one who gave Himself. All its teachings demand that men give themselves."

Dr. Miller holds to the belief that a successful pastor or a working congregation as such is required to give unreserved service to Christian enterprise.

"It is easy to give money," he said, "when one has first given oneself. All other practices of Christianity are subservient to this first demand, the giving of self."

The dedication of Dr. Miller coming to Lima was the installation of Rev. E. Bruce Jacobs as pastor of Calvary church.

COMPLICATION RESULTS IN DEATH OF VETERAN RAILROAD ENGINEER

Thomas Caffrey, 69, of 730 1-2 S. Main-st., died Sunday from a complication of diseases. He was born in Dublin, Ireland, and has been for the past 21 years an employee of the Lake Erie & Western railroad, in the capacity of engineer.

For twenty years he has resided in the Lima district. He was a member of Lima Lodge No. 54, B. P. O. Elks, and of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He is survived by a widow and a son, Fred, who resides in Chicago.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 9 a. m., at St. John's Catholic church. The body will be accompanied at 12:05 o'clock over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Tuesday to Chillicothe, where interment will be made Thursday.

TRIAL OF JOHN ROBERTS DELAYED INDEFINITELY

Trial of John Roberts, indicted by the October grand jury, charged with assault and battery was passed indefinitely Monday, as a result of agreement of attorneys for both sides in the case.

"Trial had been set for Monday."

OPPOSE RETURN OF MINISTER

Cleveland Delegation Before A. M. E. Conference Here.

REV. COLLINS REMAINS HERE

State Divided Into Three Conferences Next Year.

The Rev. John A. Collins, pastor of St. Paul's A. M. E. church, was returned to Lima as pastor, by the Northern Ohio A. M. E. church conference, which closed its annual meeting Sunday in St. Paul's church here. The stationing report was read by Bishop Joshua H. Jones, who presided at the sessions, at 10 p. m.

The conference raised nearly $300 at the morning session, with which to carry on the education of the colored race in the various churches of the conference. Bishop Jones asked for $800. The amount raised will probably be increased by private subscription.

PHOTEST APPOINTMENT Because of contests for the pastorate of St. John's church in Cleveland, and at Piqua, Bishop Jones announced he would supply these pulpits later.

A delegation of colored people came to Lima to protest against the appointment of the present minister there. The church and congregation have been contesting their troubles in common pleas court for the past several months.

It was decided to divide the state of Ohio into three conferences next year, adding the Southeast Ohio conference. The Northern Ohio and Ohio conferences are other state organizations.

Bishop Jones left Lima Monday for Lancaster, where he will preside over the Ohio conference, which will convene in that city, opening Wednesday.

TENTATIVE PROGRAM IS OUTLINED BY COMMITTEE FOR ARMISTICE DAY HERE

A tentative program for Armistice Day celebration in Lima was outlined at a meeting of the special program committee, held Monday noon at K. of C. hall.

A monster parade, routed to pass a specially erected grandstand in public square for Gold Star mothers; temporary cessation of activities in the city, blowing of whistles, ringing of bells and an attitude of reverence at 11 a. m., sports during the afternoon and dancing during the evening, are a few of the major events decided upon for presentation to the general committee at its meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms Tuesday night.

A memorial service is planned to be held in Memorial hall at 7:30 p. m. and dancing in all dance halls in the city from 9 p. m. until midnight, with all ex-service men admitted free.

A two-minute service of reverence at 12 noon, with all persons in Lima facing eastward, is another Armistice Day feature planned by the arrangement committee at its meeting Monday.

SHOW THIS TO BILLY SUNDAY

For the first time in the history of Lima, police were called out Sunday night, to keep crowds who desired admission to a church, from interfering with traffic.

The Rev. Warren L. Steeves, pastor of the First Baptist church, is delivering a series of sermons on "Five Bible Fools and Five Lima Fools." The attendance at the church since the beginning of this series was such as to cause congestion of traffic at High and McDowell-sts.

A week ago it was impossible for traffic to pass along McDowell-st. because of the long string of automobiles parked there. The automobile line became longer Sunday night.

HOLDUP IS FOILED, ROBBER SHOTS

Two Kenton Men, Father and Son, Injured By Same Bullet.

KENTON — (Special) — A lone-handed robber held up Milton Lamb, 55, well-to-do farmer, at a point a mile and a half west of Kenton, Sunday night and after being unable to carry out his plans, shot Lamb in the hip. Lamb is not seriously injured and will recover.

Lamb was accompanied by his son, Charles, 18. The same bullet which injured the father also struck the young man in the hip. The injury was just a flesh wound, it has been discovered.

The hold-up occurred at the Ohio Central Railroad tracks on the Lima-Kenton pike. Lamb and his son were driving a horse hitched to a buggy. As the two neared the railroad tracks, the robber, who appeared to be youthful and was not masked, jumped from behind the rail tracks and grabbed the horse's bridle. The animal struggled in the hands of the intruder and finally broke away, pulling its owner and son to safety temporarily.

When the hold-up man discovered his prey had beaten him, he fired the shot as the two drove away. Police scoured corn-fields and woods in an endeavor to locate the highwayman, but no trace could be found.

Lamb and his son reside on a farm near Forker. They told police they believed the young man passed them, riding a bicycle, a few moments before they neared the Ohio Central railroad tracks.

An abandoned bicycle was found by police near the railroad crossing, Monday morning.

MAN SHOTS WIFE, TWO OTHERS

Three in Hospital, Result of a Family Quarrel.

KENTON — (Special) — Mrs. Hazel Nichols, 25, McGuffey, is in City hospital, Springfield, recovering from wounds inflicted by her husband, Joseph Nichols, it is said, following a family quarrel, Saturday night.

The family had just moved to Mechanicsburg and it was there that the shooting took place. Mrs. Nichols' right hand had to be amputated as a result of gunshot wounds and she is also suffering a scalp wound, said to have been inflicted by her husband with the butt-end of a shot-gun.

Their five-year-old son suffered injuries to the head in the encounter.

Mrs. Ida Nichols, 40, Mechanicsburg, sister of Mrs. Hazel Nichols, with whom the family were living, suffered injuries to her neck and left breast from buck-shot from a gun which have been fired by Joseph Nichols.

Nichols is still at large. The trouble arose, according to Mrs. Hazel Nichols, when she upbraided her husband because of the poor care he gave his family. She declared she informed him she would return to the home of her father, James Newland, near McGuffey, unless he gave her a better care. Rather than have her leave him, Mrs. Nichols related her husband asserted he would kill her. He procured the shot-gun and proceeded to endeavor to carry out his threat, she declares.

At the Springfield hospital it is announced that all three will recover.

ACCUSED WRONGFULLY, WIFE SAYS IN ANSWER FILED IN DIVORCE SUIT

Mrs. Laura Suydam charged her husband, Frank, accused her of attending church for a wrongful purpose, according to Mrs. Suydam's cross petition to her husband's divorce case, filed in court Monday.

Mrs. Suydam, who resides in the rear of 721 S. Pine-st., says she did refuse to live with her husband and so told him in a letter, while he was in Oklahoma recently.

She alleges he denied parentage of their children and only sent her half the money from the southwest he claims. She did ten to fourteen washings a week to support herself and family, she says.

The couple were married in May, 1899, and have a family of six children, eldest of whom have passed legal age. Suydam charged his wife neglected their home.

SON IS EXECUTOR OF ESTATE OF MRS. IRWIN

Mont Irwin, Elida, has been named executor of the estate of his mother, Mrs. Caroline L. Irwin, in probate court. The property consists of $2,800 in real estate and $55 in personal effects. Two daughters and four sons are equally heirs.

Mrs. Irwin died October 2, last. Cyrus Horer, Neil Adgate and T. K. Jacobs were named appraisers.

BRITISH WARMO HONORED BY U. S.

Congressional Medal Laid in Grave of Unknown Tommy.

CEREMONY AMID SPLENDOR

Pershing is Central Figure in Military Pageant.

LONDON — (United Press) — Amid the splendor of a military pageant sobered by a solemn religious ceremony, America paid tribute to Britain's unknown warrior today.

The congressional medal of highest award within the power of the United States congress, was laid upon the grave of the unknown Tommy, who lies buried in Westminster Abbey, while British royalty, peerage and military and naval dignitaries and American admirals and generals looked on.

Pershing is central figure in the military pageant. General John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American army, was accorded almost royal honors before the ceremony today.

King George sent the royal carriage to the American embassy camp in state, between long lines of troops which stretched the length of Constitution Hill and Whitehall.

At the entrance to the historical abbey, where the ceremony took place, Pershing and Ambassador Harvey were met and greeted by the dean of Westminster. With them were the Duke of Connaught, representing King George, Evered Pershing drove to parliament camp in state, between long lines of troops which stretched the length of Constitution Hill and Whitehall.

OPTIMISM IS NOW FASHIONABLE

Business Returns, However, Require Special Effort.

RETAIL TRADE INCREASING

All Signs Are Better, But There's Work Ahead.

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK — (Special) — Don't rush to the conclusion that because optimism is now fashionable, business will come along in satisfactory volume without any special effort; or that, because the basic factors have turned the corner, difficulties a plenty will not yet be encountered, calling for the exercise of courage, patience, intelligence and faith.

Admittedly, favorable developments lately have been impressive and convincing. Facts such as the following carry significance and justify brighter views and more aggressive action — without, however, warranting flying to extremes.

The banks record an increase in deposits and discounts.

Railroad traffic shows gains.

Unfilled steel orders, for the first time since the depression set in, showed last month, not a loss, but expansion. Prices, too, have ceased to decline and are tending upward.

Unemployment is decreasing. For example, manufacturing establishments in New York state report an increase of 3.12 per cent. in September over August, the first improvement experienced since 1919.

Building activity has broadened substantially.

Oil prices are rising.

Copper has crept up to 13 cents a pound.

Cotton reports and domestic consumption have expanded surprisingly.

Railroad rates are being voluntarily readjusted in various important directions, and railway executives offer to pass on to the public the savings effected by the fresh reduction in wages proposed.

Retail trade is brisker. The largest drygoods house in America declares: "Reports from merchants throughout the country point to a decided increase in retail business."

Sterling Exchange has recovered to the highest level since Germany began arranging reparation payments.

Investors are coming forward with large amounts of new capital for both home and foreign requirements, thus reflecting greater confidence in the outlook and their expectations of more comfortable monetary conditions.

This column began to urge revival of courage and aggressiveness long before definite signs of coming improvement were generally apparent.

Charges of pessimism therefore, will not be made if a few words of caution are uttered now with a view to dispelling any notion that all obstacles have been overcome and that prosperity will now come to us whether we exert ourselves or not.

I have been assiduously gathering facts and forecasts from the leading financial and business men of the country, and while the results are gratifying and reassuring, nevertheless it is significant that not a few men noted for soundness of judgment take occasion to warn against unreasoning optimism and rash action. Let me cite a few sentences on this score:

Arthur Reynolds, president of the largest bank in Chicago says: "There is now a definite trend forward. It is not especially marked, and so far has nothing of the indications of a rapid upward swing in business. Whether the improvement is merely seasonal or deeper rooted and likely to far-reaching, is problematical."

George M. Verity, president of the American Rolling Mill company, Middletown, Ohio, says: "I feel that we have had much improvement, as we could hope to have immediately following the low point in unemployment. It is not natural, neither would it be sound, for business to show large volume during the latter end of a drastic period of readjustment. While we have gotten thru the worst of all the things that go with readjustment, there is still a considerable leveling of cost and selling prices that must be accomplished before we can have conditions that make for real progress."

SUNDAY GIVES SUGGESTIONS FOR CLEAN MOVIES

Movies and their effects on public morals are discussed for the first time in three articles written by Rev. Billy Sunday, the famous evangelist. This is the third and last.

BY REV. BILLY SUNDAY
Famous American Evangelist

THE movie has almost unlimited opportunities for education and entertainment and general good. In the world of literature there are hundreds of thousands of good stories and the skill and genius of great directors has proved that almost any story can be told on the screen. Nor need there be any lessening of the dramatic and the sensational and the spectacular.

Because of the movies many boys and girls who never have been a mile from home know more about the geography of their country than their elders did after spending fortunes in travel. Think how many folks know what Niagara Falls really looks like and the Grand Canyon. And yet this field has hardly been touched. I've often wondered if Mammoth Cave had been filmed or a harvest scene on a mid-west farm or a possum-hunt in the Southland.

There are thousands of varieties of good comedy films. It's a fine thing to "make folks laugh and nothing is more popular than genuine humor. If any country on the face of the earth loves clean fun it is ours.

I believe the movement to bring pictures into the schools is an admirable one. A child absorbs information, thru the eyes far quicker than any other sense. Lack of complete understanding is most often the cause of strife between various social scales, and the movies, quicker and better than any other agency, can tell one-half the world how the other half lives.

I keep in close touch with the progress of the stage and screen and I realize their power to affect the lives of the people. I wonder why they do not film more stories like Pilgrims Progress, Ben Hur, the Waverly novels, Robinson Crusoe, the Last Days of Pompeii, the Deserted Village, Poe's stories, Rip Van Winkle, Virginius, Ten Nights in a Bar Room and Charlie's Aunt. I never have known a boy or girl who did not enjoy pictures. They think in pictures before they speak in words. We have the best authority for the use of pictures. God spoke thru the Old Testament by means of pictures.

When a Frenchman talks he gesticulates so that you will see the picture as he does and the American Indian suggests more by signs than he does by words. The Bible is the greatest picture book in the world. It is an inexhaustible supply of tragedy, pathos and drama and the time will come when the movies will present these stories reverently and faithfully and when that is done examination of college students on the English Bible will not furnish such a supply of crass ignorance and poppycock nonsense as it does today.

The movie is one of the great institutions of America. It must be taken into account whenever consideration is given to the things that vitally affect the well-being of the nation. My hope and prayer is that its progress in the future may be along wholesome, clean, helpful and inspiring lines.

FAMILIES ABSENT HOMES LOOTED

Thieves Take Jewelry From West End Residences.

Two daring burglaries were committed in Lima's west end residential section Sunday night. Loot of the approximate value of $75 was stolen, Police Monday were baffled and no arrests had been made up to noon.

The home of Mrs. H. Agnes Kemp, 1022 W. Spring-st., was entered some time early Sunday evening while the family was absent. The prowlers secured a plain gold band ring, a garnet ring, gold bracelet and a pearl brooch. Value of the articles is estimated at $50. A skeleton key was used to gain entrance to the home, the prowlers leaving the door open on their exit.

A skeleton key was used to gain entrance to the home of Charles Fenstermaker, 139 S. Cole-st., a short distance from the Kemp residence. A lady's gold Elgin watch was the only plunder obtained. The house was ransacked while the family was absent.

Police believe both jobs to be the work of the same prowlers.

CLASS INITIATED BY WHITE SHRINERS

Candidates from Ft. Wayne, West Liberty, Spencer, Ohio City and Lima, numbering 46, were initiated into the mysteries of Rabboni Shrine, No. 20, White Shrine of Jerusalem, Friday night in Eagle Hall. Out-of-town guests were welcomed at the Hotel Norval by Mrs. Clara Weaver and her assistants. Dinner was served at 6 p. m. in the banquet hall and at 7:30 p. m. candidates received the degrees of the order in the shrine room. Mrs. George Kirk presided. Chrysanthemums used in the decorations were presented to patients at City hospital.

BOGUS MILLIONS FLOODING U. S.

Counterfeiters and Bootleggers Blamed for Gigantic Fraud

BILLS ALSO ARE PASSED

Many of These Now Afloat Thru-out Country.

WASHINGTON — (Special) — Counterfeiters and bootleggers, working together, have brought about the most serious false money crisis the Treasury Department has ever faced.

Cellar engraving plants in big cities all over the country are pouring out an endless flood of counterfeit bank notes, reaching into the millions.

Bootleggers and rum runners use the bogus money to pay for the liquor they buy from mountain moonshiners in the south and liquor dealers on the Canadian border.

These victims spread the false money broadcast. Almost daily the secret service staff of the Treasury Department uncovers a new counterfeit. But no sooner have the false notes been rounded up than the engraving plants pour forth a fresh supply.

Cooperation between counterfeiters and bootleggers has permitted the counterfeiters to float poorer notes and in greater quantities than ever before. Here's how it works:

A bootlegger goes to the mountains of Tennessee to buy up a consignment of moonshine. The moonshine is delivered and the purchase price paid in a forest under cover of night.

The moonshiner has no chance to examine the money. And it's not probable that he'd detect its falseness if he could.

Later, when the moonshiner's false money is detected at a store or bank, he doesn't dare complain. So he takes his loss and says nothing.

It works similarly on the Canadian border. Canadian bankers and merchants aren't as familiar with American money as bankers and merchants on the U. S. side, and the counterfeit bills travel on a long way before they're detected. Then their source can't be traced.

Two methods of counterfeiting have been used most during the past few months. One is raising bills. That means making a $10 or $100 bill out of a $1 by pasting one or two ciphers after the "1." This usually is very clumsily done and can be easily detected.

Many combinations are possible in "raising." Two-dollar notes are raised to $20 and $5 to $50. Hundreds of raised notes of $20, $50 and $100 denominations are in wide circulation today.

The other method is splitting a real bill into two parts, pasting two halves of a counterfeit bill on the two genuine halves and thus making two bills out of one, each with one side that will pass muster at the most exacting bank.

Thousands of dollars in bills of this type recently were put into circulation by a counterfeiting gang at Philadelphia.

Counterfeiters usually work in groups with each member assigned his own special task.

Counterfeiting is confined largely to bills, although a few false hands are still making counterfeit coins. These are produced from molds and are more easily detected than bills.

EASIER TO SELL SHOES TO MEN THAN TO WOMEN, LIMA DEALERS ASSERT

Men do not haggle and fuss over the purchase of a pair of shoes, as do the fair sex, say Lima shoe dealers.

According to their story, when a man wants to purchase a new pair of shoes, he usually walks in and gets fitted in short order. A study of the shoes in the window has enabled him, perhaps, to select in advance the shoe he wants.

"On the contrary, when a woman comes in" one dealer said, "a study of the various styles in the show window convinces her she wants them all and when she gets inside it is extremely difficult to make a selection."

Still, the lot of shoe salesman in a shop largely patronized by women is not a hard one, even tho it is necessary to show practically all of the latest in the store in certain styles. There are compensations for the obliging salesman in the present day styles.

The shoe game has changed, old timers state. The successful salesman now must do more than sell shoes, especially in women's boot-eries. After the shoes are sold, he must urge upon the customer a pair of hose, to match and a box of special polish.

These side-lines have become profitable for dealers in late years.

TEACHERS' CONVENTION OPENS AT TOLEDO OCT. 28

TOLEDO — Several hundred Ohio teachers will participate in the forty-ninth annual convention of the North-western Ohio Teachers' Association to be held in this city October 28-29.

Prominent speakers on the convention program are: Dr. J. F. Hoste, Teachers' College, Columbia University; Dr. L. D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota; and Dr. Henry Suzzallo of University of Washington, Seattle.

Superintendent E. W. Hovey of Defiance, president of the association will be the presiding officers.

ROBBERS CUT HOLE IN PLATE GLASS

Frightened Away From Wapak Grocery By Crash.

WAPAKONETA — (Special) — Thieves made an ineffectual attempt to enter the P. F. Schneider grocery, S. Blackfoot-st., Saturday night. They cut a big piece out of a heavy glass in the front door, but were frightened away when the glass fell.

Police are linking up the finding of an abandoned Buick touring car, on the Middle pike a mile and a half east of here, with the attempt. The machine was left there early Sunday morning, according to neighbors. The garage glasses on it bear marks of a glass cutter, believed by police to be the same one with which the robbery attempt was made on the grocery. The auto bears Ohio license number 450,777.

Waynesfield village council authorized the purchase of a motor truck, equipped with a water pump, 35 gallon chemical tank and other fire-fighting equipment.

The Waynesfield postoffice has been changed from fourth to third class. The postmaster, J. L. Sanders, now draws a salary of $1,000 yearly.

Falling to notice a cut of freight cars ahead of him on a crossing, D. M. Crow ran into them and smashed his auto, but he escaped without injury to himself.

A dollar isn't sufficient to buy a pound of butter and a dozen of eggs in Wapakoneta. Butter prices range from 53 to 56 cents per pound and eggs are 55 cents per dozen.

Enrollment in Anglage-co system of schools is 3,817, according to a report for September issued by Superintendent Drummond.

DEATH SUMMONS COMES TO MRS. O. W. BELL

Mrs. Harriet C. Bell, 78, wife of O. W. Bell, 711 W. Spring-st., died Sunday morning at her home, after an illness since January. Her serious illness was confined to four weeks. Death was due to a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Bell was born in Pekin, Ill. Besides the husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. George E. Mahaffey and three grand-children, Donald Mahaffey, Miss Margaret Mahaffey, both of Lima, and Bettie Bell, Marquette, Mich.

Besides her immediate family, Mrs. Bell is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Sophia Hooker, Robinson, Kansas, and Mrs. Elmira Bayless, Pekin, Ill. Mrs. Bell was an active member of Market-st. Presbyterian church.

Funeral services which will be private, will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the residence. The Rev. Samuel Hucker, pastor of Market-st. Presbyterian church, will officiate. Interment in Woodlawn.

DEMAND RIGHT TO WIN BREAD

Members of Working Women's Congress Battle Idleness.

SESSION OPENED IN GENEVA

War Declared on Unemployment By Chicago Leader.

GENEVA — (By Associated Press) — The second International Congress of Working Women opened here today, Mrs. Raymond Robins, of Chicago, delivering the presidential address. Mrs. Robins spoke also as president of the National Women's Trade Union League of America, which called the initial congress in Washington a year ago. Delegates from 48 countries are in attendance.

Mrs. Robins told the women of the congress that their immediate tasks were to battle against war and unemployment. She urged them to "sweep the government out of office" when lacking bread and security.

"The first battle in that war is to stop increasing armaments. We can, if we will, make Armistice Day this year in every land a day of resolution and prayer, and end the Washington conference shall not adjourn until some vital step is taken toward the disarmament of the nations. If the women of all lands will use Armistice Day for kindling the fires of sentiment and action against this crime of increasing armaments, the Eleventh of November, 1921, will mark the beginning of the peace of the world. To this task we consecrate ourselves today."

RIGHT TO WIN BREAD "At home, each one in her own land — at home, our first domestic task is to win the right to our daily bread. Everywhere, the curse of unemployment shadows the workers' homes."

"Either unemployment or capitalism must go. If competitive private industry cannot employ the able and willing workers then is competitive private industry doomed. Governments that can spend billions in destructive war must learn how to spend some billions for constructive peace. Not doing in ceasing idleness, but living wages in productive work, this we demand from the governments and the economic order in all lands."

"For the first time in history we have political power and power imposes responsibility. We face the chaos and suffering made by man's governments in the earth."

"When we are hungry and homeless and idle or slaughtering our brothers or killing our sons, let us vote against the government without regard to party. Let us refuse to be beguiled by party shibboleths or hypnotized by party leaders. Together let us demand bread and security for our homes. When we have these simple understandable benefits we support the government — when we are deprived of them we sweep the government out of office."

Piles

Can't Be Cured from the Outside. External treatments seldom cure Piles. Nor do surgical operations. The cause is inside — bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must first cure the circulation — send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Outlines and cutting won't do it.

J. E. Leonard, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal treatment for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-RID and tried it in 1000 cases before he was drugged. Now HEM-RID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless laxative, easy to take, and can always be found at Thompson's Drug Store and druggists everywhere who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer. — Adv.

Now is the time to begin storing away good health for soon winter will be here with excessive demands upon bodily health and attending evils, colds and pneumonia.

Practically no one in good health is in any great danger of contracting pneumonia under ordinary circumstances and conditions. It requires the presence of germs of pneumonia and some outside influence that is able to lower the normal bodily resistance to disease.

Winter, with its cold and snow and ice, is one of the best of such outside influences, because it is in winter that we become careless of how we care for ourselves. At this time ventilation is usually bad; we overwork and overeat and get too little exercise.

The greatest predisposing cause of pneumonia is fatigue. The "tired feeling" that invariably follows prolonged effort of any kind is simply a protection from all the overworked cells in the body demanding rest and repair.

They are shouting aloud that they are not in any condition to repel the attacks of disease germs and if the germs do attack the cells will not be able to fight back properly as they could were the body rested and in good condition.

Sleep is absolutely necessary to every individual. Loss of sleep is extremely dangerous for it leaves the cells exhausted by the work of the previous day and gives them little time to repair and rest themselves. It is only during sleep that fatigue exhaustion is neutralized.

Overeating is another harmful procedure. It clogs the body with a great deal of useless material that requires overtime work on the part of important organs of digestion and elimination, so that the body is not able to maintain its defense at maximum strength and do this other work, too.

Despite prohibition, alcohol still remains a great predisposing cause of pneumonia. The feeling of intoxication is merely the sum total of effect of alcohol on all the cells of the body. These cells, the standing army of the human body, are paralyzed by alcohol and rendered weak as the aftermath.

Their efficiency is partially destroyed never to be regained except when new cells are built up to take their places.

So we see that now is the proper time to begin taking stock of our physical conditions and if they need strengthening to withstand the dangers that will be present with the coming of winter, the present is just the time to begin.

SHANK'S MARE

WALKING is becoming a lost art. Autos, street cars, motorcycles, bicycles and trains are enslaving and weakening us.

Dr. John H. Finley, former university president and New York state commissioner of education, walked from New York to Princeton. The spectacle of a man plodding along that auto highway was so unusual that Finley was arrested at Rahway, N. J., for vagrancy.

Walking is such a lost art, Finley points out, that he got a lot of space in the newspapers and set New York gossiping for weeks, by arriving recently from Europe and remarking that he had walked 100 miles on the boat on the way across.

WHEN we need something, nature adds it to our bodies. Thus she grew a long neck on the giraffe so it could nibble the tender leaves and buds in treetops.

And when we no longer need a thing, when it becomes dormant by not being used, nature takes it away. For instance the fish in Mammoth Cave, which are blind because they do not need eyes.

Imaginative artists have drawn pictures of men on Mars, with huge heads and puny legs. That would be the natural result of a civilization of intellectual activity and physical inactivity.

It would be interesting to come back to Lima in another hundred years and see if habitual riding on wheels will have stunted and withered man's inactive legs. Our fingers are shorter than those of primitive man who had to have long fingers for tree-climbing.

WHETHER future men have small legs or none at all, does not bother us. But, most certainly, the majority of modern people suffer from a great deal of bad health that could be cured by a brisk walk daily. Various cities now have walking clubs, and it is a movement that should become national.

The world's walking record is one mile in six minutes and 25-4 seconds, held by G. H. Goulding of Canada. If you want to realize how you have neglected your leg muscles, go out and try to walk a mile in 15 minutes.

Right now—autumn, with its bracing air and its scenic beauties—is the best time of the year for walking. Try it for exercise, for health. And, if you are a business man, inclined to get to the office in the morning with a fagged brain and faded nerves, walking to work will rejuvenate you and double your efficiency.

To be sick less, walk more. Ask the Boy Scouts.

THE Second International Congress of Working Women opens at Geneva, Switzerland. Delegates attend from 48 countries. The big talk, as the convention opens, is about war and how to prevent it.

That is a problem that is up to women. Politicians will never end war.

The only way to stamp out war is to kill the war spirit in human beings. The place to kill it is in the cradle, by what mothers drill into the minds of their children. The cause of war is in the brain. Kill the seed before it sprouts.

TIMES CHANGE

SMOKING by women spreads. In our country, cigars, in England, dainty little pipes. In the Philippine Islands cigars as big as hatchet handles. Observing which, many lament the waywardness of modern life.

But smoking by women was very common in the British Isles three hundred years ago, according to an old book dug up by the London newspapers. It recorded:

"The chief luxuries in the rural districts are little used, but the use of whisky has become very great. The use of tobacco may almost be said to be excessive, especially among the female sex. There is scarcely a young woman by the time she has been taught to spin but has also learned to smoke."

Each century seems to have the same problems. Man runs in a circle. Wonder when hoop skirts and powdered wig will come back?

SPORTS OF THE FUTURE

WHAT kind of sports will man have in the year 2000 when the average brain will know more than the 1921 encyclopedia? Contests then will center on useful achievement. Occasionally we have such cases now, as when corporation salesmen pair off into teams and contest to see which team can get the most business.

Loud cheers rise from the crew of the D. G. Kerr, Great Lakes steel freighter, when they learn that they have broken the world's record in loading and unloading iron ore. They loaded 12,382 tons of ore in 16½ minutes, unloaded it in three hours and five minutes. Like trouble, harder to get out than in.

PREPARING FOR PROSPERITY

AS the steel industry over-built during the war? Has it more mills and equipment than peace-time demand can keep busy? U. S. Steel Corporation does not think so. It will spend $10,000,000 on new plants.

Authorities disagree about when the next boom will start. But the ablest business men believe that we are in for a great period of prosperity, possibly the greatest ever, when it finally gets started. Regarding prosperity, the country at present is not participating but it is preparing.

VENTURES

BETWEEN Armistice Day and Oct. 1, 1921, oil and gas companies have been formed with a total capitalization of $7,687,202,800. Have you some of the stock?

More money goes into the speculative end of the oil industry than is ever taken out of the ground by the same ventures. On the inside, the oil business is relatively safe. The professional oil men average good income. That lures the speculative moths.

LARGEST TREE IS IN MEXICO

The Santa Maria de Tula, a giant ahuehuete tree in Oaxaca, Mexico, is the largest tree on the American continent. In view of this Oaxaca authorities plan to create a state park with the giant as the central point of interest.

The tree measures some 12 feet from the ground, 30 feet in diameter and over 750 in circumference. That is larger than the largest of the famous California redwood trees. The giant belongs to the Mexican cypress family, and its name, ahuehuete, in Aztec, means "old water-tree." The Aztecs and most of the other Indian races of Mexico had a profound respect for old things. The giant cypress did not escape their attention, and they discovered that wherever an ahuehuete grew there was water not far from the surface. Connected with this is the curious belief that if you place your ear to the roots of the Santa Maria de Tula you will hear distinctly the murmuring of the subterranean waters.

The "old water-tree," in an age of nature worship, was dedicated to one of the oldest of the Aztec deities, the goddess of the waters, who was believed to inhabit, at times, the underground waters, from which she came occasionally, in the form of a beautiful woman.

After the conquest of the Aztec empire, the Indians continued to worship the old water-tree. But after this practice was broken up by the adoption of Christianity, they began to call the big tree Santa Maria (after the Virgin Mary).

GIRL ARRESTED AFTER HIDDEN CHILD IS FOUND

COLUMBUS — After policeman Sunday found a four-weeks-old infant concealed in a dresser drawer in a rooming house here, they arrested Miss Freda Neal, 23, of Cambridge.

When questioned by police, she said she put the child in the drawer, to hide it, fearing she would be evicted from the room she had rented, on account of the child. Police called by the landlady of the rooming house, said the child was almost smothered. Miss Neal and the child were sent to the detention home for juvenile court action.

THE LIMIT

THE lady just east of my flat
Possesses a shrilling-singing cat,
The people below
Have a poodle or so—
Their barking is loud, but I bear it;
The man at my west has a flute
Which wakes me at dawn with its Toot.
It's a bit of a strain
But I still remained sane
Till the lady above got a parrot.

I find I am able to laugh
In spite of each loud "onograph";
When tenants have fancies
For two-o'clock dances
It's fun, and I'm willing to share it.

But oh, gentle lady above,
The I'm mild, quite as mild as a dove
You'd grow pallid in tint
If you had but a hint
Of the things that I think of that parrot!

I'm sick of that maddening screech
Which you may imagine is speech;
This bird in his cage
Makes me purple with rage.
And as for my naïf—well, I fear it;
I hate to be rancorous and rough,
But, listen—enough is enough,
Put the mullerion on
That dam pest, or I swan
You'll be mourning the death of a parrot.

Are You Getting Your Share of Lima Purchases?

Roger W. Babson, undoubtedly the world's greatest authority on business conditions, has just published the foregoing figures in his Forecast of Business Conditions embracing every important city, and state in this country and Canada.

These figures are presented to his clients to show where to sell, setting forth the possible purchasing power of each community. A city that has made progress in adjusting itself naturally is looked upon as the better locality in which to transact business.

As Mr. Babson states, "The success of sales and advertising campaigns is affected to a large degree by conditions both in the country as a whole and in individual localities."

Babson teaches that guessing with sales policies is gambling. Facts alone count when success is desired.

Sales and advertising campaigns that are planned without a knowledge or consideration of facts covering conditions in that locality can only hope to result in uncertainty.

In covering the Lima district there need be no guessing as to the proper medium thru which to place your advertising campaign. Where it is a matter of economy, many merchants have proved that the field can be successfully covered with one medium — The Lima News.

The Audit Bureau of Circulation in its audit of the News circulation reports that in Lima alone 9,842 papers are daily delivered to paid subscribers out of a possible 10,682 homes. Added to this is our tremendous out of town circulation that makes an advertising campaign a certain success at a minimum cost. Consider the facts and stop gambling with your advertising appropriation.

MRS. ROBERT E. HORN, of W. Market-st., entertained the members of the Afternoon Bridge club and a few guests at a prettily appointed 1 o'clock luncheon at the Elks Home Saturday. Following the luncheon the afternoon was devoted to bridge. Mrs. Lloyd Applas holding high score among the members while Mrs. Clinton Seals held high score among the guests.

Next meeting will be held in a fortnight with Mrs. Lloyd Applas, of the Yant-apt.

One of the most attractive of full weddings was celebrated Saturday at high noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heffner when their daughter Ruth Marion was given in marriage to Joyce E. Durbin of Lafayette, O.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march the bridal party took their place at the improvised altar where they were received by the Rev. Wynne of Dunkirk, O.

The bride was gowned in white chiffon over tulle and her veil was caught up and held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms, while she carried pink bride's roses. Her sister, Miss Esther Heffner acted as bridesmaid and was dressed in pink tulle, carried lavender chrysanthemums. Oscar Vinbigger, of Mansfield, O., acted as best man.

The house was prettily decorated with pink and white cut flowers and the table decorations carried out the color scheme with large baskets of pink and white flowers used as center pieces and tall cathedral candles of pink and white. Following the ceremony a three course dinner was served to the following guests:

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Durbin and daughter Lenore of Lafayette, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Durbin and son Harry, of Harrod, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Blair and son of Dayton, and Mrs. J. A. Clavough and son of Dayton, O.; Mrs. Della Cook, of Harrod, O.; Rev. Wynne of Dunkirk; Mr. Oscar Vinbigger, Mansfield, O.; Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Cramer, Mr. Oren Welby, Mr. and Mrs. John McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Sevens and daughters Gertrude and Ruth; Mr. Ray Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Durbin, Mrs. Victor Jones, Miss Irene Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Robinson, Mr. Alton Osmani, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heffner and daughter Esther and the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Durbin left Saturday afternoon for an extended motor trip thru southern Ohio and Kentucky and will be at home upon their return at 1100 Bellefontaine-ave.

The bride has been an employee of the Deisel store for several years and Mr. Durbin is employed at The Lima Packing Co. in the shipping department.

Mrs. Adam P. Pilot, Miss Fred Williams, Mrs. Mary Pilot, Miss Ambler and Florence McGreevey motored to Toledo, where they enjoyed the week-end with friends.

Mrs. H. S. Moulton, of W. Market-st. was hostess to the members of the College Woman's club Saturday with Mrs. W. L. Pierce, Mrs. John H. Cramer, Mrs. Grace Hollis Cook, Mrs. Roy B. Gregg, and Miss Ruth Seymour as assistant hostesses.

A most interesting and enjoyable program was presented by the following: Miss Margaret Gregg, instructor of music in the public schools; Miss Elizabeth Riddle, teacher at Central High school and Miss Ruth Seymour, general secretary of the Y. W. C.

The next meeting of the club will be held November 12 at the Hotel Argonne. Luncheon will be served after which a lecture will be given Mrs. John W. Roly, president is now making arrangements for an out-of-town speaker for this meeting.

Mrs. Hattie Mott, of Cleveland, band chief of the Pythian Sisters, and Mrs. Fannie Verna, of Mansfield, O., past grand chief of the Pythian Sisters, are the guests of Mrs. E. W. Stump, of S. Jameson-ave, for a short stay. They came to this city for the meeting of the Pythian Sisters, Monday evening and for the convention in Van Wert, Tuesday.

Ladies' Social club of the U. C. T. will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. Alfred Reuther, of 205 N. Colliett-st. Mrs. Harry Potter and Mrs. Harry Gayle will act as assistant hostesses.

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Calumet coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and contains no harsh chemicals. It is very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

LETTERS TO LOVERS

By WINONA WILCOX

—SELFISHNESS—
Men are supposed to be more selfish than women.

But from letters presenting their angles of triangular love affairs, it appears that as a rule men have a finer sense of justice than women and a broader comprehension of an involved situation.

Contrast these two paragraphs, one written by a girl, the other by a man:

"Am eighteen and in love with a married man and he with me. He is ten years my senior and the father of two children. He tells me he wishes to divorce his wife, pay her alimony and marry me, but she will not bear it. He says his children keep him away from me.

"My parents are doing all they can to break up this thing, but I doubt if it can be done. Haven't I my right to my lover even if he did marry another before he ever saw me?

Let us pass over this selfish defiance of the right with the recommendation that the girl commit the seventh commandment to memory and apply it in the larger way; and then let us consider a man's angle of a similar problem:

"Am a teacher and I live at peace with my wife altho I love a young woman who is my assistant. I know she loves me and my only happy hours are spent where she is, but so far I have been silent.

"I know my duty to my children and to my industrious little wife. I have a stubborn will, nevertheless, and I am afraid that next year's work with the girl I adore may prove too much for my resistance.

"Shall I deliberately undertake to make her despise me by seeming to be a bluffer and a cad?"

FIND THE REAL YOU!

Interpretative Dancing Will Help You!

(BY RUTH AGNES ABELING.)

BOSTON, Mass.—Back home, after a period of frenzied rehearsing and a wild dash half way across the continent, to jump from the conclusion of one huge pageant to the beginning of another—Virginia Tanner takes time to breathe and talk.

"Why, yes, I know what I like best about dramatic dancing for great numbers of people," says this Radcliffe graduate who can take a thousand or more untrained people and in the space of a few weeks have them rhythmically working together.

"I like the flexibility which results. Old and young are molded with the music, the count and the direction. It takes them out of themselves—they forget for the time being that they're work-a-day folks and live the part of the dance suggests. They find their real self."

"Society dancing?" "Grotesque—for the most part," says Miss Tanner, "but real dancing, dramatic dancing or ballet pantomime is a wonderful awakener of personality."

"Usually such dances are costumed. The wearing of a costume hints of a different being. Then start the waltz at dancing.

"Just like that!" with a quick gesture of her hand, "the real being in that person begins to come out."

"We are all more, or less suppressed and represented by conditions, habit and inheritance. But the moment there is an effort made to express something through the body, the self-consciousness, if you would call it that, vanishes."

"That is why dramatic dancing—not with a view to professional career—should be part of every growing girl's curriculum. It will help her to obtain a poise and self-possession which are invaluable."

And, says this yet young woman of her own pleasure in the work of training hundreds of pagans, "I love it because when you take hold of it everything is fluid. You must create as you go. Your problems are human problems. Instead of building with nails and wood you are building with people. You must create a picture with human mediums."

And that is fascinating. Miss Tanner directed the dramatic dancing for the pageant at Plymouth and more recently for the Red Cross pageant at Columbus, O.

Now the girl who wrote the first letter is a fair type of the common responder who dares to intrude into families which are already established. She sees only herself. But the man keeps his wife and babies in mind, "he knows his duty." He would evade temptation by posing as a villain.

Truth can be trusted in all the affairs of life, therefore it seems foolish for the man to pose as something he is not.

His own stubborn will, set toward the right, as at present, doubtless will save the situation. And the man ought to be glad that he has the will to endure. That is what so many temper men and women lack.

If all romantically inclined married men would imitate this teacher's standards of decent conduct, we would have a far happier world.

Not that the individual would be happy, but he would refuse to make innocent persons unhappy.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You will take your departure just after having spoken to your hostess. Leaving while some one else is speaking is bad form. You will consider yourself the accredited chapman of any young woman guest in your home who has not brought a chapman with her.

You will ask that the hostess not be interrupted if you arrive at her home before the appointed hour and are admitted by a maid or some member of the household.

SAVE SUGAR

If very acid fruits, such as cranberries, currants and the like, are cooked until nearly finished and then sweetened, they will not require so much sugar.

FOR SPEED

If you would speed up the drying of the bed clothing which you have laundered, have two clothes lines strung with about two feet of space between them and pin the blankets to each one.

TOMATOES

Stuff the tomatoes with chopped onions, tomato pulp and bread crumbs and then bake them. They're good.

SUSIE SMART SAYS

Dear Miss Smart:

I am an engaged girl and altho I am very certain my fiance case for so many pretty girls I am afraid that at some time he will think of me. Do you think it would be all right to marry him, feeling as I do?

KATE
Y OU silly girl. Why should you feel that way. If you are not attracted to him, you are certain that your fiance loves you sincerely you may feel certain that his love is true and lasting. He loves you for yourself and not for your looks.

There is usually enough trouble in this world of ours without borrowing any. As your fiance loves you, your appearance doubtless is pleasing to him and probably will continue to be if you still give it the attention you now most probably give it. Perhaps you underestimate your attractiveness. Of course, everyone cannot be a natural beauty, but at least all can acquire style and an attractive appearance by a little study and care. A famous artist once said: "There isn't a woman on earth who doesn't look pretty to someone." There now, doesn't that make you feel better?

Dear Miss Smart:

(1) When our friends take us to the ice cream parlor, does it make any difference as to which side of the table we sit? (2) Is the boy supposed to take hold of the girl's arm? (3) Are girls at the age of 18 and 17 too young to keep company with the boys? (4) If not, how late should they stay? (5) When my friend speaks to my boy or girl, is it proper for me to speak also?

BROWN EYES

(1) No. (2) At least when crossing the street, or when escorting a girl friend thru a crowded street. (3) No. It is proper for them to go out once in a while with my friends. (4) That is for your mother to decide. (5) Not unless he or she happens to be an acquaintance of yours.

Dear Miss Smart:

Could you please tell me where I could rent or buy a masquerade suit for Halloween. We are two girls and we feel we have not time to make suits.

TWO GIRLS

I know of no place where you could rent suits. They are really very easily made and are not expensive. If you feel you haven't sufficient time to make them, why not inquire from some girl friend whether or not they have suits which you might use that evening?

THE FLYING HOOF

By WILLIAM JOHNSON

experienced eyes suggested the habitual user of drugs. There was but one thing she could think of to describe him—a vulture.

Noislessly she lowered her arm to the sill, and inch by inch, careful to make no sound, pushed up her window. The window opposite was open. She must hear what was going on over there. Twice already as she watched the "vulture" had raised the revolver menacingly, and each time she had shuddered, expecting to see murder committed before her very eyes.

"If you don't give it up before I count ten," she heard the man with the revolver say. "I'll put a bullet in your heart."

The young man's only response was a stiffening of the body. Breathlessly Suzanne listened and watched. Oh, why, why didn't he give them whatever they wanted? The man with the revolver began to count slowly.

"One. Two. Three."

When he had reached "five" a somersault came from Suzanne's lips, but before she could utter it there came from another source an unexpected interruption to the menacing count. A knock, twice repeated, sounded on the door, so sharply given that the sound carried across the court.

With a muttered oath the "vulture" hastily concealed the revolver in his pocket. The man who were waiting, it seemed to Suzanne edged a little closer to the window. She caught her breath, wondering if he was planning a desperate leap, if he tried it he would surely be crushed to death on the cement of the court below.

For a second the eyes of his tormentors were turned toward the door, and swiftly the young man reaching white came hurrying out the window and dropped into the court below. Suzanne had just a glimpse of the young man's face, white and determined, a clean, strong face in which there was no sign of fear or wavering. Somewhere, it seemed to Suzanne, she had seen that face before. It seemed strangely familiar, almost like that of some old friend, yet she was positive it was no one that she knew.

As she watched she saw a Japanese enter, the butler, apparently, he approached the older man deferentially, extending a note on a silver tray. Impatiently the old man took it, tearing it open. As he read its contents he murmured "Damn!" and still holding it in a clenched hand, waved the butler away. As soon as the door had closed behind the butler came the revolver again.

"Once more, I tell you," cried the vulture-nosed. "You'll never leave this room alive unless you give it up."

"Gentlemen," the young man answered calmly, "you are making a mistake. The documents you're looking for aren't in my possession."

"Don't try that bunk," rumbled the old man. "We know they came back from Europe today, that you got them not two hours ago—that you still have them."

"If you don't believe me," the young man replied with increasing confidence, "you can search me and see."

"By God, we will," the old man cried, rising from his chair. "We'll strip you to the skin. We're going to have those papers."

In a mad torrent the thoughts rushed through Suzanne's brain. If they searched and failed to find the documents, an inkling might come to them of what he had done. They would keep him prisoner there, perhaps kill him, and would find the papers for which he was fighting so bravely lying there under the window. Only she, Suzanne Trask, could save those papers.

Swiftly she darted back out of the bedroom, pausing in the hall to snatch up a small electric torch, and ran down the stairs, silently praying that she might not be too late. Noislessly she sped through the lower hall and down the basement stairs. A door opened on the court. She never had been down there before, and she might find the door locked and key missing. She breathed more easily when she found

RIDDLES

(By IRVING BACHELLER)

"Backed off the dump!" Ab Riley shouted amid laughter and applause and John Riddles was ready to be the owner of the Million Farm.

The prosecuting attorney came to him with congratulations.

While they were talking they were interrupted by Erastus Waters.

"I have new evidence in the matter of the Connors murder," he declared. "It involves this man and another. I am going to demand a hearing before the grand jury."

"I should advise you to take that back," said Riddles. "I came here with peaceful intentions, but I have evidence which would put your son in prison. The thing for you is peace, but if you want war I am prepared."

"Mr. Waters, I know all about that man," said the prosecuting attorney. "He is right when he says that he can't make you trouble. You had better not begin knocking anybody. As to the Connors case, I shall be glad to talk with you in my office but I do not think that you have made any discovery which will be new to me."

"Well, what the use of fighting anyhow?" Waters exclaimed as he entered his hand.

"If we can't be friends we need not be enemies," said Riddles.

The latter finished his business with the attorney. As he was leaving the park with the ladies, he turned to Harriet Martin and said:

"Now you are free to do as you like. There is no string on you. The sale gives you enough above your debts to cover a degree of independence. I hate to have you marry Percy, but if you really want to I shall give you some facts and then, if you persist, my blessing."

"To tell you the whole truth, I don't want to," she answered.

"Then perhaps you would consider me?"

"No," she answered. "I would not consider you a minute."

"Why not?"

"I would say yes very quickly."

"Thanks! I shall go home with you and there we shall attend to all the details."

"I had it in mind yesterday to make a historic suggestion," said she.

"What is that?"

"Speak for yourself, John," she answered with a laugh.

While Harriet and her mother were shopping, Riddles met Mr. J. Reginald Travers.

"Travers," said the mill owner, "I would like to know something of your past."

"Often I think that I know very little about it myself," said Travers. "I do not mind telling you in confidence that I used to be an actor—a very good actor in England. I went to the war and got rather careless with human life. I came out of it seeing red and drinking red. C me over here and went broke, and joined a labor union in the trade I had known as a boy. Now I am back on the stage again playing second lead in a really great part. I love it, but the performance is endless and there isn't a brick or a red flag in the play so far. I'm rather glad. Curious how your sympathies change with your circumstances."

Riddles looked into his eyes and understood.

"I hope you are happy," he remarked.

Travers laughed. "It's a highly emotional part so far, but I have got along with it very well. Rather in my line, you know. Good-by, the madam is waiting. Thanks for all you have done."

Before leaving town Riddles went to say good-by to the prosecuting attorney. "My friend," said the latter, "you were wrong. Travers did not kill Taylor. I have here the written confession of the man who did it. He was a friend of Travers who had fought at his side in France. He saved Travers's life one night. Brought him into camp badly wounded under fire. Our friend took the Connors crime on himself as an act of gratitude. The confession is supported by the affidavit of an eyewitness."

"What are you going to do about it?" Riddles asked.

"The guilty man will be punished but not severely. I learn that while the brick may have hastened the death of Taylor it was not the direct cause of it. He had an incurable disease from which he had long suffered."

"Well it occurs to me that there are few who can play the part of a gentleman more successfully than J. Reginald Travers," said Riddles.

WANTS WORLD TO KNOW IT

Had Indigestion for Years—Now Sound as Dollar.

"I took Tamlac because I had confidence in my friend who recommended it, but now I know from my own experience that Tamlac does just what is claimed for it," said M. E. Sank, 1632 Tenth Ave., Huntington, W. Va., employed by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad.

"I have an enormous appetite now, which is a big change for me, as I used to have no appetite at all. My stomach is as sound as a dollar too, and I am never bothered with attacks of indigestion such as I used to have no matter how little I ate."

"When a man has suffered for three years like I did and then finds a medicine that puts him in tip-top shape it is natural for him to want to spread the news, and that is the way I feel about Tamlac. I would like to tell everybody in the world about it."

"Tamlac is sold in Lima by Hunter's Drug Store and by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Why Grow Old Before Your Time?

It isn't years alone that makes one old. Many folks are younger at 70 than others are at 50. A lame, bent back; stiff aches, joints, rheumatic pains, bad eyesight, and bladder irregularities are often due to kidney weakness and not advancing years. Don't let weak kidneys age you. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have made life more comfortable for thousands of elderly folks. Ask your neighbor!

Here's A Lima Case
Mrs. C. Collins, 348 E. North St., says: "I had trouble with my kidneys and my back felt as if it would break. I was all tired out and my kidneys acted too freely. I was bothered with bladder disorder and was restless at night. I felt so dizzy I could scarcely keep on my feet. Doan's Kidney Pills bought at Vortkamp's Drug Store did me of the back-ache and my kidneys acted normal-ly."—Adv.

FEEBLE BLOOD WORKS HAVOC

Gude's Pepto-Mangan Makes Red Blood; Liquid and Tablet Form

When blood becomes thin and weak it is due to falling off the number of red blood cells. It is easily recognized by pallid skin or a bluish complexion, loss of appetite or unnatural irritability and a sensation of weakness. It is not dangerous at first. In fact, many people scarcely notice it and go on for days, thinking they will be better the next day.

The great danger is in the possibility of becoming seriously ill from disease, which can work havoc in a body that lacks the endurance and resistance in rich, red blood.

Taken in time and steadily, a few bottles of Gude's Pepto-Mangan are a great help. It improves the quality of the blood by adding red blood cells. They check the weakness, improve the appetite, and clear the complexion.

You can get Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form at your druggist's. Get the genuine with the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package. Advertisment.

SOUTH AND CENTRAL HI ATHLETES ARE TRANSFERRED

EACH SCHOOL HARD HIT BY BOUNDARY REGULATIONS

A gloom spread over Lima High schools Monday. It became known that two of the best athletes from each school were transferred.

Willard James, captain of Central's basketball team and a member of the regular football squad, goes to South Hi with Robert Fisher, regular halfback on the grid team and a basketball, track and baseball man.

Donald Pettier, South Hi's right halfback and the best track man in the school, is transferred to Central Hi with Wesley Jones, left halfback on the regular football team.

Much consternation has arisen among the students of each school. They look upon the transfers as weakening each of their teams, despite the fact that it was an even split.

Determination of school officials to enforce the boundary regulations resulted in the transfers. It was found that the two Central athletes resided in South's territory, and the two South men lived in Central's territory.

HERE'S THE SENTIMENTS OF THE MEN THEMSELVES

Just what effect this will have on the two teams is being anticipated with much interest. It has been rumored that all four men have already indicated that they will refuse to play against their old schools in the annual Thanksgiving Day football game at College Field, should they be chosen on the team.

COACHES REMAIN SILENT AS AFFAIR IS DEBATED

Coach Ward Young, of South Hi, and Coach O. J. Detrick, of Central, have not entered the dispute because of fearing that their sentiments, if expressed publicly, would be disastrous and would cause bitter feelings.

Halloran Accepts Challenge Of Spencerville; Game Here Sunday

BERNIE Halloran, manager of the Lima Independents, has accepted the open challenge of the Spencerville baseball club and will play them next Sunday at the Murphy-st ball park for a purse of $500.

It is understood the Spencerville team is aroused over the game and the entire village is up in arms.

Carl Berry, former Lima pitcher, will be in the box for the visitors. That team dazzled him by offering him a fabulous sum to pitch for them the remainder of the season and he deserted Halloran's line-up three weeks ago.

The Spencerville-Lima game will present a peculiar situation to local fans, inasmuch as it will not be pleasant to see Berry defeated and it won't cause any happy feeling to see the Lima team lose to the team carrying the dollar sign.

ISSUED CHALLENGE

A month ago the Spencerville team challenged any team in the county, hurling their defiance chiefly at the Lima outfit. Halloran took it under consideration and has decided to play off the game for the disputed championship of the county.

Extra seating facilities will be provided as one of the largest crowds that ever assembled at a baseball game here is expected to attend. Spencerville will turn out en masse for the game, as the village is behind their team 100 per cent.

Lima Boy Scouts To Hold Outdoor Meet October 28

The Roosevelt National Memorial Association, with headquarters at Washington, has designated Thursday, October 27th, as Roosevelt Day.

The Lima scout troops, under direction of the local council will celebrate the birthday of their pioneer scout, Friday afternoon, October 28th, at 1:30 o'clock, at Laurel Park, in the form of an outdoor, semi-athletic meet.

The following program has been prepared by Assistant Scoutmasters, Drinsbach, Sheldon and Cox:

Scoutmaster, Signaling, team of three from each troop.

Relay Race, team of four from each troop.

Fifty Yard Dash, team of two from each troop.

100 Yard Dash, team of two from each troop.

1921 Title Winners Shows Champs Are Made, Not Born

By ROY GROVE
THE bird who chirped "champions are born, not made," taking in his sleep.

And you can easily prove it to yourself if you'll check over the leaders of 1921 as they stand on the eve of the summer sporting season's hibernation.

The best of them, you'll find, were MADE—made thru sheer determination.

It was determination alone that made Ethelda Bleibrey the greatest all-around swimmer that the feminine sex ever developed. As a girl Ethelda was thin and round-shouldered. Her health was bad. But she determined to build herself up. She went at outdoor exercises, including swimming, vigorously. In 1921 she shattered world's swimming marks one after another.

Last April in a New Jersey competition, she made 50 yards with the backstroke in 1:33 4-5. Later she lowered the world record at that stroke to 1:25, for 100 yards to 1:17 3-5 and for 150 yards to 2:10 1-5.

In the free style she lowered the world record for 300 yards to 4:11 2-5 and the American records for 100 yards to 1:06 1-5, for 400 yards to 5:44 and for 440 yards to 6:10 4-5.

And you say they're BORN?

JOCK HUTCHISON was a caddy in Scotland. Not any better than the other caddies, and not any worse. But constant application and effort on his part as he grew up in United States enabled him to go back to Scotland last summer and win the British open golf championship against the stars of the home of golf.

And you say they were BORN?

BABE RUTH with Baltimore wasn't a great star. He didn't shine especially in the National League, for his batting average there was only .231. It wasn't until he began to put in a lot of deep study on the psychology of hitting home runs that he really began to get some place. And now? Well, two world records for home runs in two consecutive seasons is not so bad.

And you say they were BORN?

YOU'LL find it true of all the rest of those who head the survival of the sport fittest list. Long Jim Barnes, winner of the national open golf championship at Washington last summer, never had an easy time with a masher. He has chased championship matches for years, and never won. But in between he hunted up the keenest of competition and gradually built himself up until he topped.

Dan Shea is much like Barnes. He worked hard, here and there at this and that, and finally grabbed off the championship of the decathlon, or all-around track and field athlete title.

It's the same with 'em all—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory at tennis, Jack Dempsey in the ring, or even the trotter, Peter Manning, on the track.

Champions are born, yes. But not born champions.

Celina Eleven Defeats Local Team, 12 To 0

After holding the Celina eleven scoreless for three quarters Sunday, the Lima City team weakened and lost by a score of 12 to 0 in the last period.

It was the locals 3 second defeat. Sidney defeated them a week ago 9 to 0.

All of Celina's points resulted from intercepted plays and the educated toe of Burn Rice, of St. Marys, who played fullback for the Celina eleven.

Rider booted the pigskin over the goal twice in the last quarter. Roeder, Lima's left end, played a remarkable game both in the offense and defense. He rubbed a couple of long passes and at one time had the ball off Celina's 2-yard line, only to have his team mates lose it on a costly fumble.

Korn, right tackle, had to be carried off the field in the last quarter when his ankle was wrenched. The line-up and summary follows:

The Line-up:		G. Brookhart
Roeder	L E	L T	Bomholt
Van Horn	L T	L G	H. Brookhart
White	C	R	Kohn
Fisher	R G	R T	Eissman
Phillips	R T	R	Gerlach
Korn	R E		May
Glancy	R E		Short
Cox	L E		L. D.
Blackburn	L B		Dibble
Van Horn	R B		McCarthy
Looker	R B		Rider
Mackin	R B		Touchdown, Rider Drop Kick,

Two—2. Subs — Heiby for McCarthy, Springer for Eissman, Hendrick for May — Lima—West for Glancy, Hadsell for Korn, J. Wiggins for Looker, T. Wiggins for J. Wiggins.

Head Linesman, Stud, Celina; Referee—Myers, Ohio State.

Lima Beats Wapak By Score 14-2

(By FRANK DOAN.)

AIDED by several former major league stars, the Lima Independents administered a nasty defeat to the Wapak Reds at the Murphy-st ball park Sunday by a lop-sided score of 14 to 2.

It was the fourth game of five game series that stood 3 to 2 in favor of the Auglaize boys. Lima was compelled to win in order to stay in the race for the inter-county championship.

The inability of the visitors to hit Bill Morsette, Lima's new pitcher, and costly errors proved their undoing. Morsette is one of the most finished looking ball players that has ever performed on the home lo. His assortment of pitching stock Sunday would have made it difficult for any club to beat.

He has been signed by Ty Cobb to play with the Tigers next year.

GILLHOOLEY—4 RUNS

Frank Gillhooley, former member of the New York Americans played centerfield. Out of five time at bat he registered four hits, four runs and pilfered three sacks.

Bust'n Schaffer slammed the pl twice for three bases and also made a single.

Gillhooley this season led the International League in hitting an base stealing, and has earned another trial with the Yankees for next spring.

It is estimated that 2,000 fans saw the game. Auxiliary seats were resorted to in the field, but hundreds of spectators were compelled to stand.

TUCKER'S LATEST FILM IS SOON TO BE RELEASED

(By ESTHER WAGNER)
The last photoplay made by the famous George Loane Tucker, producer of the famous "Miracle Man" will soon be released. It is called "Ladies Must Live" and was adapted from the magazine story of the same title, by Alice Duer Miller.

This film is the only one made by Tucker since "The Miracle Man." He worked 20 months on it and was frequently interrupted by his illness. Even up to the time of his death he had indicated changes to be made in the film. These alterations have since been made.

The story in no way offers a plot of merit comparable to the theme of "The Miracle Man." It deals with the life of parasitical women, those who neither toil nor spin, but live in ease thru the largesse of rich husbands and brothers-in-law.

The role of the woman is played by Betty Compson, who first gained notice in "The Miracle Man."

George Loane Tucker was one of the most romantic figures in the picture history. Practically a stranger to the business, he made the first so-called "million dollar picture." It was "Traffic in Souls."

He then went to London and associated himself with Hall Caine, Anthony Hope and other famous authors. Over there he produced "The Christian," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Arsene Lupin." He then returned to America where he made two films before he produced his masterpiece.

paternal ancestor, it seems, had up until the time of his demise, been on a hunt for a panacea which would cure all ills. Young Jimmy proposes to announce the finding of that formula. He mixes up some ginger, Fuller's earth, charcoal and pepsin and the Centerville Leader comes out with an extra.

The ones born every sixty seconds flood the place and are miraculously cured. The rival drug store is rival in name only. The wealthy chain-owner has the powder analyzed and has Jimmy put into the hands of the law. But when in court even the judge, stricken with a tummy ache, takes a powder and immediately feels like a ten-year-old. What could they do? Of course, Jimmy cannot be made to say what is the fifth ingredient.

So witness the ambitious young man selling out to his father-in-law to be for a million and a half. And the fifth ingredient is—guess!

Isn't it crazy? Sure! But the nonsense is well turned out—you know what I told you up above?

"One A Minute" is being presented for the last time today at the Faurot Opera House.

OF course you want to know why girls leave home. They must have a reason, and Warner Bros. producers, have taken it upon themselves to tell us via the silver sheet, the why and wherefore.

"Why Girls Leave Home" is taken from the old stage success of the same name. Contrary to belief, it isn't the melodramatic thunderbolt you would believe it to be. It tells its lesson straightforwardly and without undue affectation. Parents are apt to find it most interesting.

Here we have two girls. The one, a working girl, leaves home when her narrow-minded father decides her for a wealthy one. He takes her in evening clothes. He didn't think his daughter even knew the sort of people who wore them. On top of that he accuses her of stealing to gain her ends.

"Just because a girl prefers silk cotton you call her wayward," says the girl as she packs her suitcase and leaves forever. Then, to make it sadder, the father forbids the girl to see her mother when she is dying. I dunno whether fathers in real life are that cruel or not. But we're way ahead of the story.

The other girl, wealthy, pampered and spoiled, neglected by her mother, enjoys life to the fullest, until her father takes a hand and tries to keep her down. He tries accompanying her on most of her wild parties, but there comes a time when she defies him and leaves the beautiful home to meet the villain.

The paths of these two girls cross and the finale shows the both of them safe in their dad's arms, who, it seems, knew they were wrong and are going to do everything they can to make up for it. They give you that impression, anyway.

There's a cast in this picture that is splendid. Anna Q. Nilsson is the daughter who prefers silk to cotton. She's adorable. Then Maurine Powers, who is a new find, is seen as the cuddled child of wealth and gives a pretty good impersonation of that particular character. Kathryn Perry and Corinne Barker, who take Anna under their wing when she leaves home, are interesting.

The story is not a happy one. On the contrary it may depress you somewhat. But you can ask anyone who saw it at the Sigma on Sunday and they'll tell you that it was a well put-on drama, with a lot of human interest.

"The Girl in the Taxi" With the Havens

THIS is a merry little film with Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven romping thru the well known episodes of "The Girl in the Taxi."

The deHavens, whose careers as farceurs on both stage and screen have earned for them an enviable reputation, are seen respectively in the roles of Bertie Stewart and Nigamon Miller.

Bertie's father calls him a molly-coddle. Bertie steals his father's coat clothes, hides in a taxi to evade his stern parent—and then the fun begins, for in the taxi is a pretty girl.

Bertie takes the girl to dinner and there meets the irate parent and the situation that naturally follows moves the nucleus for many a funny situation. The fun grows funnier when the policeman, called in to quell the rumpus, discovers his wife as one of the party. It is in this same cap that provides much of the merriment.

And the climax! Better dig down in your pocket and see whether or not you have your watch. Maybe you haven't. Why? Ask Bertie. Anyhow, the girl in the taxi is the fun for the blissful close and you depart, quite sure that you have just witnessed one of the funniest farce-comedies of the year.

Mrs. DeHaven, altho not a favorite of this department, does her work with great skill and finesse. Her husband, Carter de Haven, is a likable young man. King Baggot and Grace Darmond, two well known characters are seen in fitting roles.

In fact, the whole thing is ludicrous and provoking, with a whizzbang, knockout, slam 'em twist in every foot.

"The Girl in the Taxi" is the feature today at the Regent theatre.

SHORT SHAVINGS

A W. High, a woman met a man who was buying a lot of dishes. We have a new maid who had never seen an electric washing machine before. The woman told the maid that she thought it was a machine and she thought it was a machine and she thought it was a machine.

WRIGLEY'S

"Your Pretty Teeth—
What have you done to them?"

There is a new way of teeth cleaning—a way which fights film. To millions of people it has brought whiter, prettier teeth. Also safer teeth and cleaner.

You see the results in every circle—see them in glistening teeth.

This is to urge that you try this method Ask for a ten-day test. Then mark the change which you see and your friends see.

It combats the film

Most teeth are clouded more or less by film. The film is viscous. You can feel it with your tongue. But it clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. And it often forms the basis of fixed coats.

The ordinary tooth paste does not end film. The tooth brush has left much of it intact. The film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. Thus millions of teeth have lost their natural luster.

How film ruins teeth

Film does more than mar the beauty. It is now regarded as the cause of most tooth troubles.

Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Also of other serious troubles, local and internal.

These troubles have been constantly increasing. So dental science has long been seeking ways to fight that film.

A daily combatant

Two effective methods have now been found to daily combat that film. Able authorities have amply proved them. Millions now employ them. And leading dentists everywhere are helping to spread their use.

The methods are combined in Pepsodent, a new-day dentifrice. The results are quickly seen and felt, so they cannot be disputed. That is the tooth paste we urge you to try. And we send a test tube free.

Also aids Nature

Nature places in the mouth great teeth-protecting agents. But with modern diet, rich in starch, those forces need constant stimulation. Pepsodent supplies that stimulation. This is in keeping with the views of dental authorities.

It multiplies the salivary flow. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise cling and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's agent for neutralizing acids which cause tooth decay.

Each use of Pepsodent increases these forces, and the excess remains for some time. These effects alone, in dental opinion, mean a new era in tooth protection.

No soap—no chalk

Soap and chalk are omitted from Pepsodent to accord with modern dental requirements. No tooth paste which contains them can bring Pepsodent effects.

Pepsodent is the scientific tooth paste—the new-day method of teeth cleaning. Authorities say that it should supplant the methods which are wrong.

The reasons are told in a book we send. The 10-Day Tube reveals the effects. You will know what is best in a week.

No money accepted

The 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent is free. We even pay the postage. This is simply to urge that you test it. See for yourself what it does. Decide by the clear results.

Just send the coupon, then watch the benefits you get.

Men see the results very quickly

Smokers' teeth are often particularly discolored. The film absorbs the stains. The results of film removal are usually quick and conspicuous.

Most children suffer from these film attacks. Few reach the age of 15 with sound teeth. Dentists advise that Pepsodent be used twice daily from the time the first tooth appears. No ordinary tooth paste offers anywhere near such protection.

Ten days will tell

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects.

Judge by what you see and feel. You can easily decide then between the old ways and the new. Cut out the coupon now.
